The AQOCI dedicates this graphic novel to the workers of Bangladesh and to all those who fight to remove exploitation from labour. We would especially like to thank Kalpona Akter, Founder and Executive Director of the Bangladesh Center for Worker Solidarity, who inspired this project.

With great sensitivity, François Simard transports us to the heart of the tragic events of the Rana Plaza factory collapse in this graphic novel examining issues of responsibility and solidarity, both at local and global level.

ECONOMIC JUSTICE

Why do we need to talk about economic justice?

April 24, 2023 will be the 10-year anniversary of the deadly Rana Plaza building collapse in Dhaka, the capital of Bangladesh. The building housed multiple garment factories where thousands of workers laboured for long hours—specifically, female textile and garment workers. Textile products make up over 80% of the goods and services exported by Bangladesh. It is the second-largest clothing exporter in the world, after China. Many fashion brands sold here, in Canada, source from these factories.

In the following pages, we'll explore the story of Rana Plaza, now a symbol of the problems with "fast fashion." We hope that this will encourage you to act in solidarity with Bangladeshi workers in order to create a world filled with justice and solidarity.

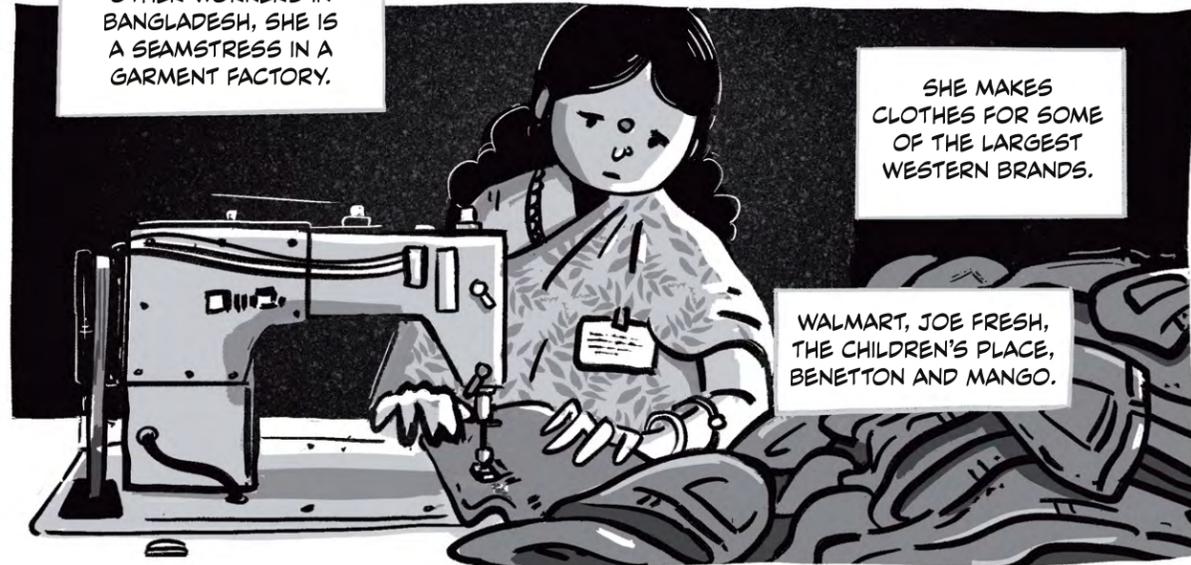

DHAKA, CAPITAL OF BANGLADESH

THIS IS MY DAUGHTER, FARIHA.

LIKE FOUR MILLION OTHER WORKERS IN BANGLADESH, SHE IS A SEAMSTRESS IN A GARMENT FACTORY.

SHE MAKES CLOTHES FOR SOME OF THE LARGEST WESTERN BRANDS.

WALMART, JOE FRESH, THE CHILDREN'S PLACE, BENETTON AND MANGO.

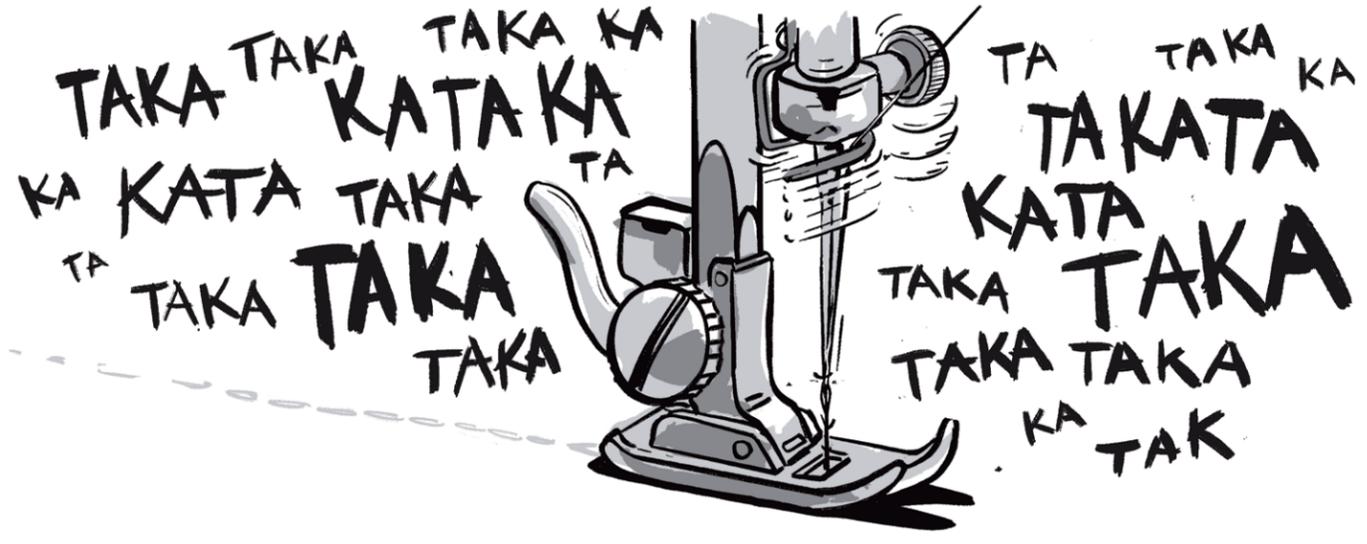

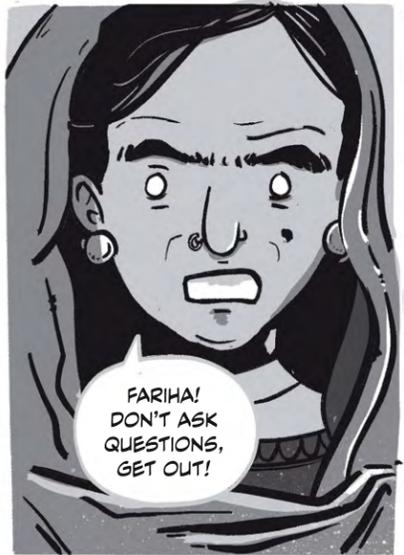

FARIHA MUST WORK 12 HOURS A DAY, SIX DAYS A WEEK, IN ORDER TO PAY HER BILLS.

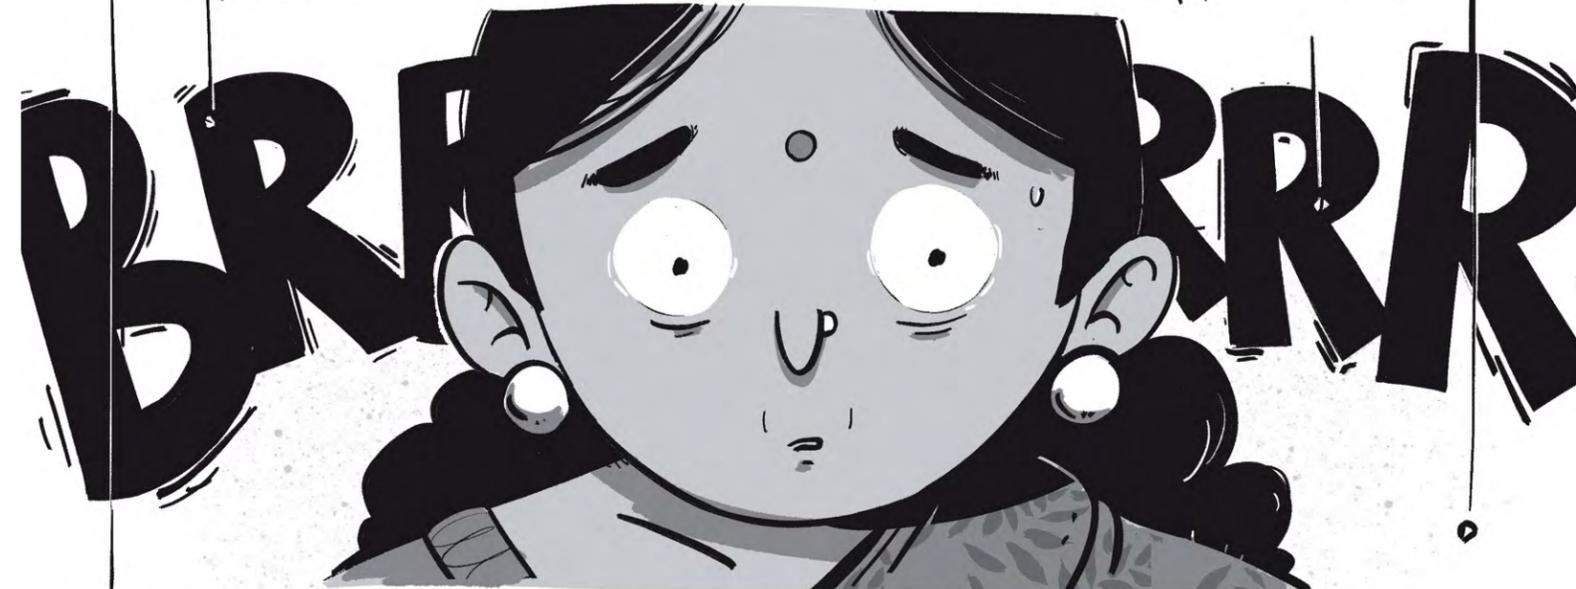

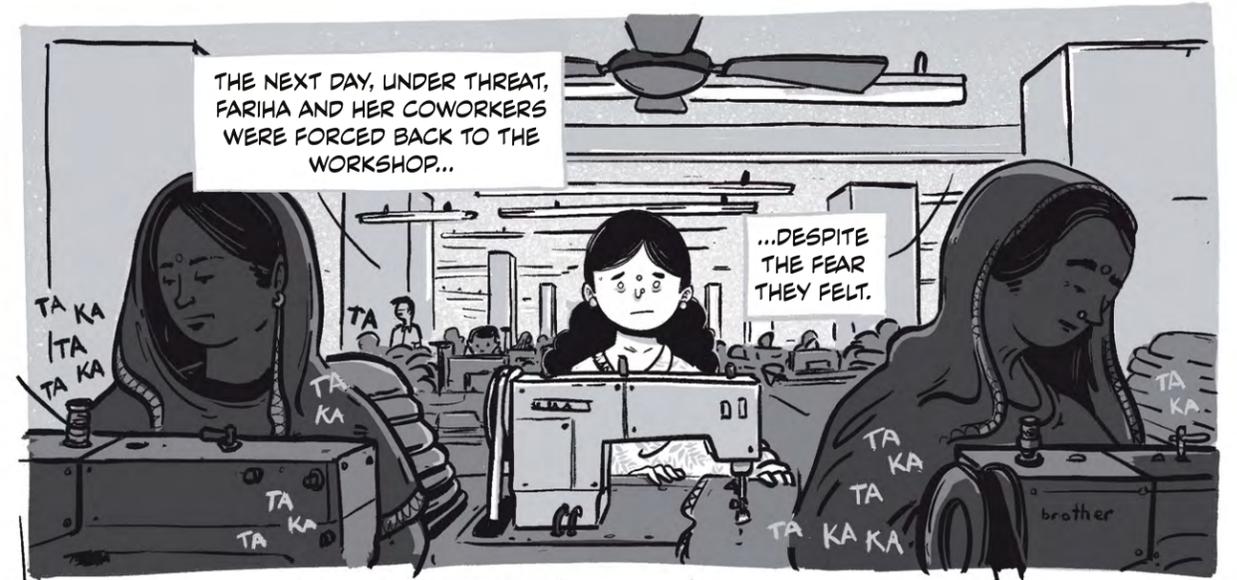

THERE IS VERY LITTLE TIME LEFT FOR HER TO SPEND WITH HER FAMILY.

THE FACTORY WHERE MY DAUGHTER WORKS IS ON THE TOP TWO STORIES OF RANA PLAZA.

MORE THAN 5,000 PEOPLE WORK THERE EVERY DAY.

GOOD EVENING. TRAGIC
EVENTS TODAY IN DHAKA,
THE CAPITAL OF BANGLADESH.

A BUILDING COLLAPSED
WHILE OVER 2,000
WORKERS WERE INSIDE.

THE LATEST REPORTS INDICATE THAT OVER A HUNDRED HAVE DIED AND OVER A THOUSAND WERE WOUNDED.

FIRST RESPONDERS DID
THEIR BEST TO FIND
SURVIVORS TRAPPED IN THE RUBBLE OF CONCRETE AND STEEL.

THE FLAGS ARE AT HALF-MAST TODAY IN BANGLADESH AS THE COUNTRY ENTERS A DAY OF MOURNING IN COMMEMORATION OF THE RANA PLAZA VICTIMS.

SEVERAL DAYS AFTER THE WORST INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT IN THE COUNTRY'S HISTORY, REPORTS OUT OF DHAKA ONLY GROW MORE SOMBER.

I'M LOOKING FOR MY DAUGHTER, FARIHA!

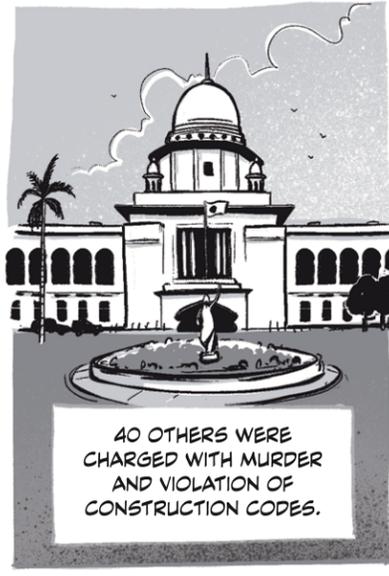

DOZENS OF PEOPLE ARE STILL MISSING. FAMILIES HOPE THAT THEIR LOVED ONES WILL RETURN SAFE AND SOUND.

MOHAMED SOHEL RANA, 35, WAS ARRESTED AS HE TRIED TO FLEE THE COUNTRY. HE WILL BE CALLED TO FACE THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

SOHEL IS NOT THE ONLY PERSON RESPONSIBLE FOR MY DAUGHTER'S DEATH.

40 OTHERS WERE CHARGED WITH MURDER AND VIOLATION OF CONSTRUCTION CODES.

ORGANIZATIONS AND SOME OF THE BIG CLOTHING COMPANIES SENT MONEY.

BUT THAT MONEY WON'T BRING MY DAUGHTER BACK...

THIS TRAGEDY MEANT THAT DEFENDERS OF WORKERS' RIGHTS WERE ABLE TO MAKE MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS IN BUILDING SAFETY IN THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY.

UNFORTUNATELY, WORKING CONDITIONS FOR WORKERS ARE STILL JUST AS POOR.

YET THESE WOMEN CONTINUE TO FIGHT, DAY AFTER DAY.

AMONG THEM IS KALPONA AKTER, A PASSIONATE ACTIVIST WHO TRAVELS THE WORLD TO ADVOCATE FOR GARMENT WORKERS.

PEOPLE EVERYWHERE CAN SHOW SOLIDARITY BY LEARNING MORE ABOUT THE STORIES BEHIND THE CLOTHES THAT THEY BUY.

SO THAT THINGS WILL FINALLY CHANGE.

THIS IS WHERE MOMMY WORKED?

YES, MY DEAR.

IN HONOUR OF THE 1,130 VICTIMS, THE 2,500 PEOPLE WHO WERE WOUNDED, AND THEIR FAMILIES AND LOVED ONES.

FRANÇOIS

**This commemorative monument was erected at the site of the tragedy by the Bangladeshi government in memory of the victims of the Rana Plaza collapse.*

Even working 12 to 15 hours a day, many textile workers in Bangladesh don't make enough to cover their family's basic needs.

ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS ANSWERS

1: TRUE While safety in factories has improved considerably following the Rana Plaza collapse and the efforts brought by the Bangladeshi workers' movements, the starvation wages remain unchanged. Workers' average monthly wage of 8,000 takas ($125) is one of the lowest among the Ready-made garment (RMG) manufacturing countries.

Source: Steelworkers Humanity Fund, Not Even the Bare Minimum, January 2021.

2: FALSE It's estimated that 160 million children are currently victims of forced labour, which deprives them of their childhoods, their potential and their dignity, and harms their physical and mental development. Since 2016, the number of children doing dangerous work has increased by 6.5 million, totalling 79 million in 2021.

Source: UNICEF, Ten Things You Didn't Know about Child Labour, June 2021.

3: FALSE Unfortunately, this is false. The wealth of the 10 richest men in the world doubled during the pandemic, while the income of 99% of the rest of the world decreased. Inequality, both within countries and between countries, has only continued to increase. This trend was exacerbated during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Sources: Oxfam-Québec, Inequality Kills, January 2022.

4: FALSE On the contrary! Nations, governments and parliaments have the means to pass laws and implement legal mechanisms to protect communities from human rights abuses and environmental destruction on the part of multinational corporations. In fact, multiple international treaties, like the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, state that they are obligated to protect these rights. Unfortunately, many governments fail to meet their human rights obligations.

5: TRUE Millions of people around the world are at risk of human trafficking. Approximately 70% of victims are women and girls, and more than a third are children. The majority of these people were forced to leave their homes due to armed conflict, socio-economic struggles, or natural disasters. Human trafficking victims are primarily compelled into sexual exploitation (50%) or forced labour (40%).

Poverty wages. That is what the women and men who make clothes in Bangladesh's garment factories are paid. This is a fact and it has been this way for a long time. It was true when I started working in a garment factory as a child more than 20 years ago.

Every day we are confronted by the desperation, heartbreak, anger, as well as courage of workers trapped in poverty. During our long struggle for better wages and working conditions we have seen progress and setbacks, but the fact remains that the world's biggest retailers and fashion brands have built their profits on the poverty wages paid to women and men working for them in their supply chains.

When I was younger and at times felt powerless to bring change, my mother told me, 'Always someone can start.' Canadian companies can start. They have a responsibility to workers in their supply chain to pay living wages, respect workers' rights, and to cushion the impact of COVID and make sure workers and their families survive.

François Simard has worked in the fields of graphic and web design for over twenty years. At night, once his children are tucked in, he dives into his universe behind his drawing board. After a few illustration contracts, François reconnected with his childhood dream of drawing comic books. This dream came true in 2022 with the release of his first professional comic book, published with Éditions Sawin. He had the opportunity to repeat the experience in 2023 for l’AQOCI, on a project close to his heart: Made in Rana Plaza.
